NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Many new NEW YORK, Aug. It was a pretty dry day, but a have learned the scheme secured drinks from an apparently closed saloon. For stranger and the uninitiated, the day was as dry as any of the past half

The most notable instance was that of Steve Brodle, who had no end of trouble in carrying on a charitable enterprise in his saloon. Brodle was giving away lemonade and taking a collection for a free-lee fund when the police arrested him for breaking the Sabbath law, but he was promptly discharged by Magistrate Cornell. Afterward he was arrested twice, but each time was released and resumed business.

A Prohibition Against Landing Priests and Nuns—Schooner Sold. (Integral of the Colon), Aug. II.—(By Central American Cable.) The governments of Nicaragua and Costa Rica have notified steamship agents that the prohibition against the landing of priests and nuns has been removed, and free entry is accorded to all but Chinese. The agent here of the New York board of underwriters has advertised that the cargo of the American schooner Annie Valentine, will be sold at auction. She has been condemned as unseaworthy.

The Valentine sailed from Mobile, Ala., on May 13 for Port Limon, Costa Rica, with $13,000 feet of pitch pine lumber. She experienced heavy seas and lost all her rigging and put into Colon on July 13, after drifting for five weeks on the Caribbean Sea and being given up as lost. She registered 240 tons net. sailed from New York, and was owned by James Stafford. Capt. Morris was sear commenter.

tract from Bank-wrecker Mosher when that worthy went to the Sloux Falls penitentiary for stealing $1,000,000 from the Capital National Bank. The State purchased his interest, but his creditors purchased the warrant.

The Land Commissioner said the affairs of the penitentiary were in good shape so far as he knew. He seemed inclined to comprehend the fact that from now on the various officers would be obliged to depend on the Board of Public Lands and Buildings for the sinews of war in the line of food and clothing supplies. This revives the old question of how much, if any, of the State's appropriation of $101,000 for the two years can be used in the maintenance of the prison. Warden Leidligh may possibly solve the problem by making the institution self-sustaining.

PRAISE FOR AMERICANS.

JOHN BULL FINDS SOME GOOD I

That Prodigality of Big, Round Dol lars Has Touched a Responsive Homeward Rush.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES.) LONDON, Aug. 11.—(Special Dispatch.) All facilities for going to America from any port of Europe dur ing the next eight weeks, except in the steerage, are exhausted. The steamship people of all lines are at their wits' end trying to accommodate the hordes of home-going tourists. The distress of the stranded travelers who neglected to secure quarters long in advance is great in many instances. The result in som cases will be that persons who would be glad to pay first-class fare will land in New York next month among the immigrants in the steerage.

It must be said that American visitors in England this summer have re-ceived a warmer welcome from En-glishmen than ever before, and the englishmen than ever before, and the en-tertaining of Americans has become what might be described, perhaps, as a popular fad. This new spirit of cor-diality is finding unusual expression also in the principal journals. Both the Telegraph and Standard print re-markable leading articles on the sub-ject, in which the warmest sentiments ject, in which the warmest sentiments are expressed in language of apparently genuine sincerity.

The Standard says of Americans: "London society loves good spirits, mirth, wit, originality and active-mindedness, and our visitors from the States possess all these invaluable qualities, and display them prodigally. The men are witty and well-informed. The women are fair to see, admirably dressed and overflowing with conversation."

> Count Inouye Resumes His Post in Koren-The Subjugation of For-mosa-Indignation Meeting at Shanghai.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) VICTORIA (B. C.,) Aug. 11.—The steamship Victoria docked today after all the steerage passengers for Canada had been landed at the quarantine sta-tion with baggage for fumigation. The crew reports that the open ports of Japan are free from the disease, but there is a slight increase in the in-terior. The vessel left before the re-cent massacre of missionaries. Ad-vices to July 28 are as follows:

Count Inouye has resumed control of the Japanese legation in Korea, and the scandals growing out of the quarrels between his subordinates and the Japanese employees in the Korean public service are gradually subsiding.
The envoy and his wife were received at court on July 22. The Queen greeted Countess Inouye warmly, and expressed a desire that she would re-main long in Seoul. By many it is believed that an effort will be made to influence the Queen through Count-ess Inouye, but the actual circum-stances do not warrant this supposiess inouye, but the actual circumstances do not warrant this supposition.

Count Inouye intends to remain in Korea only long enough to allay the dissensions among his countrymen and set the affairs of the legation in order; after which he will be succeeded by Gen. Viscount Miura, whose views respecting the course to be pursued by Japan are widely opposed to those of the present incumbent. Miura will be authorized by his government to adopt a policy of forbearance, instead of endeavoring to enforce immediate submission to Japaness dictation. Popular opinion is divided as to Miura's chances of success. It is evident that high abilities are required and abilities of a totally different kind from those which Inouye possesses in order to win the confidence of the Korean political leaders.

After the escape of Pak Yong Hyo, the denosed Korean Horn.

After the escape of Pak Yong Hyo, the deposed Korean Home Minister, from Seoul, four of his Japanese asfrom Seoul, four of his Japanese as-sociates, including a newspaper corre-spondent, were ordered to leave the country on the ground that their pres-ence was prejudicial to peace. The Japanese consul approved their ex-pulsion. At the same time, some forty Japanese of both sexes and of the dis-reputable class were sent back to their own country. The new envoy from Korea, Ko Yong Hwai, assumed the duties of his office in Japan on July 22. The special ambassador, Prince 22. The subjugation of Southwestern Formosa by the Japanese proceeds slowly. No attack on the strong positions held by Liu and other insurgent chiefs will be ordered until it is certain that the movement can be made irresistible. Meanwhile, the Japanese outposts suffer considerably from guerilla onslaughts. The government at Toklo is considering the question of suspending the civil administration, under Gov.-Gen. Kabayama, until the military conquest of the island shall have been completed. A stringent have been completed. Although the ex-Viceroy, Li Hung Chang, still suffers from the displeasure of the Chinese court, he is not without hope that his efforts to reestablish himself in favor will be successful. By a judicious use of the treasure yet at his disposal he may yet regain a position, the resources of treasure yet at his disposal he may yet regain a position, the resources of which will enable him to recoup his disbursements a hundred-fold, if he lives long enough. His most prominent rival, Viceroy Chang at Nanking, has not latterly used his opportunities to advantage.

king, has not latterly used his opportunities to advantage.

The anti-foreign uprising in the interior, his share in originating which is is well understood at Peking, have not turned out well, and their failure is reckoned more or less against him. Some of his recent recommendations to the Tsung-Li-Yamen have been more strongly flavored with prejudice than could be approved by even that unprogressive body. He proposed two candidates for post of envoy to Japan on the express ground that they knew no language but the Chinese, and, therefore, could not communicate with any Europeans. This was too much for Prince Kung and the other advocates of moderate reform, who hold that familiarity with foreign methods and ideas is essential in modern Chinese diplomacy, however despicable these methods and ideas may be. Li Hung Chang clings to the belief that the Emperor will soon realize the value of his great experience, and that his services will then be considered as indispensable, as they were before the war. In that event the hostility of Chang and other enemies will give him no concern.

At an indignation meeting of American citizens in Shanghai on July 15, resolutions were passed calling upon the United States government to appoint a commission headed by a consular officer of highest rank, and consisting of Americans possessing a knowledge of the Chinese language and customs, to proceed at the earliest moment to Cheng-Tu, and thoroughly investigate the causes and fix responsibilities of the recent riots in which valu-

Furthermore, they demanded that provision be made for the immediate return of the missionaries to their stations in Sze-Chuan province, and that their rights to reside and prosecute their work in the interior of China be publicly proclaimed in all parts of the empire.

The Japanese government learns that reports have been circulated in Europe to the effect that a pecuniary demand has been made upon China in consequence of the retrocession of the Liao-Tung Peninsula and adjoining districts, and that the matter is receiving attention from the Russian authorities. The report is without foundation. No claim has yet been formulated by Japan, nor has the question been brought forward for discussion. It is still doubtful whether this particular detail will be settled in China or Japan, but the present disposition of the Japanese is to open the negotiation in Tokio after the arrival of the new Chinese envoy at his post. In Tokio undue interference of the European powers can be better guarded against than in China.

The first reception of the new Japanese envoy at the Chinese court was distinguished by a departure from conventional precedent, which excites much comment in diplomatic circles. The Chinese cling tenaciously to punctilious and the methods of approach to the person of the sovereign are regulated and enforced with unvarying strictness. The Emperor holds audiences seated on a platform to which he ascends by a set of steps intended for his exclusive use. When credentials have hitherto been presented they have been taken to him by side staircases, at the right or left of the central flight. For a long time of the recent war between China and of the recent war between China and of the recent war between China and the methods of approach to the person of the results of the central flight. of steps intended for his exclusive use. When credentials have hitherto been presented they have been taken to him by side staircases, at the right or left of the central flight. For a long time foreign ministers in Peking have claimed that since these documents proceed originally from the rulers of their respective nations, they should have the privilege of passing over the imperial stairway, but no attention has been paid to their pleas.

Mr. Hayashi, however, had been admonished by his government to insist upon every mark of respect to which his position entitled him, and to submit to no slight, however trivial it might appear, for the reason that forms which are elsewhere considered insignificant are often magnified to vast importance in China. He therefore expressed a strong desire that his credentials should be conveyed to the Emperor by the route reserved for His Majesty, and after some demur his request was granted, rather to the surprise of his European and American colleagues. The audience took place on July 7, and after appropriate addresses were delivered, the envoy's documents were received by Prince Kung, president of the Tsung-Li-Yamen, and carried up the central steps to the throne. Hayashi's speech on the occasion was as follows: "His Majesty, the Emperor of Japan, rejoleing sincerely at the restoration of peaceful celations, has been pleased to accredit me as his representative at Your Majesty's court. I beg permission to express the sense of honor I enjoy in being granted this audience, and given the opportunity of presenting my credentials. It is my profound hope that hereafter amicable intercourse of the two empires may become more and more intimate, and that I may long be favored with Your Majesty's consideration. I pray that Your Majesty's consideration. I pray that Your Majesty may be blessed with long life and prosperous reign."

A MOB FAILS TO ACCOMPLISH ITS PURPOSE.

Attempt Made to Take Two Ravishers from the Jail at Spring-field, Ky., but the Would-be Lynchers Were Too Drunk.

The jailer, seeing that resistance was useless, handed over the keys, and the mob at once proceeded to business. Everybory in the mob was drunk, and none of them seemed to be able to unlock the jail door. After working about the locks and bolts without result they secured sledge hammers and tried to break down the doors. They proved too strong for them, however, and, after two hours' hard work, they abandoned the job.

The mob then emptied revolvers into the cells of the jail, but no one was hit. Returning the keys to the jailer themen told him they would be back tonight, and left town. The mob was composed of men from Washington and Marion counties. The two negroes will be confined at Louisville until the excitement at Springfield is over.

latest massacres are one of the results of the recent war between China and Japan. Ku-Chang is many hundreds of miles from the central governmen at Peking, and it is probable that the people had only rumors of trouble and so got all sorts of stories, some of which may have started the trouble.

"The uninformed Chinese," Miss Cushman continued, "believed that the foreign missionaries cut out the eyes and hearts of the natives to use for and hearts of the hartest of accept any story that they hear, so that the foreigners there can never tell when a mob will come upon them."

"Miss Hartford was sent to KuChang in 1887 by the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church. She was at that time a very popular teacher in the public schools of Dover, N. H. She has no father, mother, brother or sister living, father, mother, brother or sister living, but is entirely devoted to her work. Although the five-year term for which she went has expired, she has steadily refused to accept the vacation, with the privilege of visiting America, saying she preferred to stay in China with the work and finally die there. But ill-health and need of rest almost influenced her to take the needed vacation when the troubles came on. Mrs. Alderman of Hyde Park, the corresponding secretary of the New England branch of the society, has written to her, advising her to take this opportunity, while the country is settling down again, to come to America. Miss Althea M. Todd of this city is now under appointment to join Miss Hartford at Ku-Chang and was expected to leave in about a month. That the trouble has been long brewing is proven by a letter received by Mrs. Alderman from Miss Hartford. It is dated Foo-Chow, May 20, and says: "I was obliged to close the women's and girls' schools on April 9 on account of the fears of local insurrections. The English mission closed their school two weeks earlier, but I had hoped that matters might clear up and so help out. At last I found I could not stand out any longer alone. Everyone thought the schools ought to be closed, so I closed them. Then I was sick, so that when Dr. Goody urged me to come to Foo-Chow and have a rest I came."

Miss Cushman thinks that the criticisms made of United States Minister Denby are unjust, as during her residence in Peking he had been very careful to protect the missionaries' rights, was on friendly terms with them all and they esteemed him very highly.

JAPAN'S COMMERCIAL TREATY. WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Word has reached the Japanese legation that the new Japanese Minister at Peking has begun the negotiation of a treaty of commerce and navigation with China and that everything is moving smoothly without the difficulties that had been contemplated. This new treaty follows the treaty of peace made at Shimonosdeki, which briefly recited that when peace was finally restored a new commercial treaty would be formed. It is an important document, as it gives in detail the terms on which Chips, it to be organd to commerce. China is to be opened to commerce, whereas the peace treaty recited only the fact.

The negotiations have proceeded far

The negotiations have proceeded far enough to show that Japan will have the favored-nation clause as to commerce. This will be the first time that China has granted this clause to Japan. It assures to Japan the lowest rate of duty on articles sent to China that the latter country exacts from any other country. Japan is thus placed on equal terms for the first time with Great Britain, the United States and other great powers.

Any her feature of the treaty is the other great powers.

An ther feature of the treaty is the estiment of Japanese Consular Co-vs in China for the trial of Japanese. This is to ensure the Japanese, against the crude judgment system and harsh punishments of China, and is similar to the Consular Courts of other leading nations in China. But as Japan has raised her judicial system to a high plane, abolishing all relics of brutal punishment, there is found to be no need of foreign courts in Japan. Great Britain and the United States have agreed to abolish their Consular Courts in Japan and, following this new order of things, Japan will not let Chinese Consular Courts be established there, although there insist that Japan should have the same protection as other powers against the crude methods of justice in China.

The Democratic Press Grumbling at the Expensive Entertainment Afforded His Afghan Highness— Flirtations and New-mown Hay.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES,) LONDON, Aug. 11.—(Special Dispatch.) Nasrullah Khan is still on the hands of the English taxpayers, and, what is worse, his departure has been postponed to a remote date. There is considerable grumbling in the democratic press at the expensive entertainment afforded for months to this royal nonentity. When approached through an interpreter on the subject of his sudden determination to prolong his visit, he smiled pleasantly and gave as an excuse that he is acting in accordance with the will of his illustrious sire on the throne of Afghanistan, who is seeking to place diplomatic relations be-tween his country and England on a firm footing. The truth of the matter is, however, that the youth is infatuated with his new surroundings. Nobody in his own country ever thought of paying so much homage to the second son of the Ameer, who has not a ghost of a chance of succeeding his father on the throne. He loves to be lionized, and it in even hinted that a young court belle has condescended to some serious flirtations which have captured the heart of the semi-barbarous Prince. Others pooh-pooh this rumor. They others poon-poon this rumor. They say he is charmed with England's green trees and beautiful landscapes. There may be some truth in this. The other day, when on a visit to the Queen, he had slipped away and was missing for hours. The Queen finally beared always and the landscape of the control of the cont became alarmed at his long absence and, as he did not show up even at sundown, the police went out to hunt him. He was finally discovered rolling about in a hayfield. He apologized it impossible to tear himself away from the celestial scene. He had never smelled so sweet a scent as the fra-grance of new-mown hay. Notwithstanding this flattering candor all England votes him a nuisance.

fiames. In most cases they are fighting fire with fire, and many of them have buried all their valuables, clothing, etc., in order to save them in case they are obliged to fiee.

Several shingle mills are in imminent danger, the only hope of salvation being that the wind will not spring up before rain sets in. Residents of Summit, a small settlement supported by the shingle industry, had a most exciting experience. They say the fiames came upon them with the speed of a racehorse. Men were forced into the mill to escape the fierce heat. One man in trying to save his household effects stayed by the fire until others had sought shelter, but finally he started to retreat, but fell between the house and the mill, and several men rushed out and dragged him inside. Several houses were burned to the ground.

IN OTHER COUNTIES. TACOMA (Wash.,) Aug. 11.—Campers who returned tonight report that ers who returned tonight report that ashes caused by forest fires are falling quite thick at Lemon's Beach on the Sound, four miles west of the city. Heavy fires are burning in that vicinity. Last night the western heavens seemed ablaze with the glare from fires about Olympia, but tonight the smoke is too thick to see the fires. South of the city fires are also burning. Some of the plank road leading to Fern Hill has been destroyed. It is reported from Wahkaikum county that fires have burned through the east and west valleys there, destroying considerable property belonging to settlers.

During the last week there have been many fires in Skagit, Whatcom and Island counties, resulting in the loss of timber, settlers' houses and property. Scores of men have been fighting fires there.

Scores of men have been fighting fires there.

Fires in the Cascade Mountains have caused the people of North Yakima, through the local land office to petition the Interior Department to have the mountains patrolled during the summer by a squad of militia of government troops, sent out with a roving pommission. The purpose is to stop the work of firebugs and preserve the Cascade forests from devastating fires. People of Central Washington are particularly interested in this, as the fimber on the western mountain slope is the great preserver of the water needed to irrigate thousands of acres in that section. The petition states that many of the fires are set from carelessness and wantonness, and that some, it is believed, have been set by migrating sheepmen to enhance the growth of grass in future seasons.

A GREAT SCHEME.

The Colorado Desert to be Made Fruit Ranch.
(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) AN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.-The Ex

aminer says that a number of Eastern capitalists are in this city hard at work on a scheme which, if carried out, means revolution of the fruit industry of the country and perhaps a busine m such as the State has never seen

The scheme is nothing less than the reclamation of the Colorado Desert by turning the waters of the Colorado River over it. But that is only part of turning the waters of the Colorado River over it. But that is only part of the great scheme. The company has a grant of 1,500,000 acres in Mexico. Blythe's famous principality lies on its western edge and it is proposed to turn part of the waters of the Colorado River into that immense development of the greatest irrigating system in the two Americas, and, in the end, cheap fruit. The promoters evidently mean business, for they have just handed the Southern Pacific Company a check for $1,500,000 in return for its title to the alternate sections of land in the Salton Basin. The land turned over footed up something like 600,000 acres. This purchase was decided on as the best method of forever settling any question that might arise over titles.

Principally Eastern capital is behind the scheme. John C. Beatty, who has handled more land in the Southwest than any two men on the continent, is the general manager of the scheme. He got the idea some twelve years ago by watching the efforts of Millionaire Blythe to colonize his big Mexican grants. Interested with Beatty in the enterprise are such men as James Linton and Henry Pearce of Providence.

Blythe to colonize his big Mexican grants. Interested with Beatty in the enterprise are such men as James Linton and Henry Pearce of Providence, R. I., and Henry McLean of New York. The scheme was started ten years ago, and constant hard work during all that time has simply brought it to the present stage, where the work of turning the soil for the canal has only just begun. Over $60,000 was spent in surveys before the promoters were assured they could carry out the irrigation system contemplated. Then a hard battle had to be fought in Congress to capture certain government lands that were absolutely essential to the success of the plan. Agreements had to be made with the Mexican government and big corporations that held certain rights on the American side. All those obstacles have been cleared away at last, and now laborers are at work on the first section of the canal. If all goes well, the water will be running in it before the end of next year.

The company has figured that within a few years it will have at least 300,000 farmers on its lands. This will mean the handling of an immense volume of increased business for that section of the country. The company is on the eye of sending agents through all the Bastern States with a view of getting colonists. Colonising the irrigable land in ten-acre patches or more does not and the scheme by any means. A system of stores will be opened through the gradual of the colonists at a figure barely above cost.

The products of the soil will be andled by a company of which each ettler may become a member and reap her benefits. By this means it is expected hat special rates can be obtained from he railroad company, as well as a special fruit train to the East every day. Of course the throwing of this 1,250, acres of irrigable land on the markets as a good deal to the farmers of the United States, and especially to those of California. Those who are behind the scheme believe that almost anything can be raised there with water and they stand ready to furnish the water. The supply of the Colorado River is almost inexhaustible. In the months of April, May, June and July the big irrigation months, the river carries 70,000 to 100,000 cubite feet every second. That means about a million gallons every twenty-four hours, a cubic foot per second for every 250 acres. The notice published the other day that the Yuma Indian reservation was being surveyed for allotment among the Indians is part of this big scheme, though very few people had any notion of it.

The original plan of the capitalists was to take the waters of the Colorado River into Mexico and use them to irrigate their big Mexican grant. In examining the banks of the river for a suitable point to tap the stream the engineers hit upon a place on the Yuma reservation. It was the first good rocky foundation found in the ascent of the river, It fitted their purpose so well that no other survey was needed, as is the case of the Sweetwater and Bear-valley dams. Over $1,000,000 was spent in the construction of each of those dams. By getting the reservation the company saved this expenditure and obtained a safe and natural place to tap the river.

When he arrived in New York he was arrested on the forgery charge and Gov. Morton turned him over to the California officers. Whiteman exhibits letters from his mother in which she refers to her son-in-law Gibbs as a flend, and tells of the efforts of Gibbs and her daughter to embarrass Whiteman. The orime for which Whiteman was convicted was the forging of a check for $500 on a New York bank, using the name of Frank Dixon. He claims that Dixon wrote the check in good faith, but did not have $500 on deposit in New York. Whiteman, who cut quite a swath here socially, cashed the check and when the bank was informed that Dixon had no account in New York they demanded the return of the money from Whiteman. He was unable to pay it and the prosecution for forgery followed.

Mysterious Emd of a Book-keeper Charged with Embessiement. (REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) CLEVELAND, Aug. fl.—George Lohmer, for several years book-keeper at the City Workhouse, was arrested this morning on the charge of embezzlement of city money. At 7 o'clock this evening he was found dead in a cell at the central police station, under circumstances which indicate suicide.

On June 1 it was discovered that Lohmer had been embezzling funds entrusted to him. The shortage amounted to about $60,000. He was permitted to retain his position until his friends made good his shortage and then he was dismissed. Since then an expert investigation of the books showed a further shortage of about $4000. He was arrested at 4 o'clock this morning.

This afternoon he made a confession in which he admitted the theft. He was apparently in good health. An hour later he was found lying on the floor of his cell, bleeding at the mouth. He was put to bed and physicians summoned. The doctors advised that the ambulance arrived to remove him, he was dead. The Coroner is investigating the case.

THE CANADIAN TRADE.

HOW IT COMPARES WITH THAT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Dominion Exports Have Increase minion Exports Have increased Thirty-three Per Cent. in Ten Years, While the Imports Have Increased Thirteen Per Cent.— American Products.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The extent of the competition of Canada with the United States in foreign markets is pointed out in a bulletin, to be issued by the Secretary of Agriculture in a few days. The bulletin is the fourth of the market series in course of pub-lication by the department, and em-bodies the reports of thirty of our con-suls in the dominion. It shows that suls in the dominion. It shows that the total exports of Canada increased from $89,000,000 in 1885, to $118,000,000 in 1894, 33 per cent.; the imports from $19,000,000 to $122,000,000, or 13 per cent. and the total trade was from $190,000,000 to $241,000,000 during the same period. The largest proportional increase was in 1892, when the value of the total trade exceeded that of the preceding year about 11 per cent. During the years 1885 to 1891 inclusive, the trade of Canada with the United States exceeded that of any other country, but since then the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland has taken first rank, with the United States second.

first rank, with the United States second.

An important fact is that a large share of the agricultural products going abroad from Canadian seaports are cereals and flour in transit from the United States. Of $27,000,000 of such products shipped last year, $8,000,000 was American merchandise.

Of late years increased attention has been given by the government of Canada to dairy interests, encouraging the dairy associations throughout the country, and passing strict sanitary laws, regulating the manufacture of cheese and butter. No adulterations can be used, and the importation, manufacture and sale of oleomargarine and other similar substances are prohibited. Though the quantity of butter exported decreased from 10,500,000 pounds in 1858 to 5,500,000 in 1854, nearly 50 per cent, the value declined from 31,700,000 to $1,100,000. This indicates improvement in the quality of butter exported.

The statistics of the fishing industry and forest products show that the value of the former in 1856 was over

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11.—A sudden storm of wind passed over Cleveland late last night, and did considerable damage. The big car barns of the Cleveland Electric Rallway Company were blown down; barns were unroofed and several giant trees uprooted. The storm passed east long the lake shore. At Ashtabula four big hoisting machines on the ore docks were blown down, causing a loss of $10,000. Telegraphic communication was interrupted east, but the wires are working all right tonight.

IT WAS VIOLENT. DANSVILLE, (N. Y.,) Aug. 11.-A DANSVILLE, (N. Y.,) Aug. 11.—A terrible wind and rain storm, accompanied by heavy thunder and sharp lightning, passed over this section today, lasting nearly two hours. Many trees were twisted off and blown down. Lightning struck in several places and much damage was done among the farming community, fields of grain being flattened to the ground, corn being tangled up and blown down.

A cloudburst on the Lackawanna caused a landslide. The storm is remarkable for the large volume of water that fell in the short space of time, nearly four inches being regis-

RENSSELAER (Ind.) Aug. 11.—A tornado of wind, hall and rain struck this town this afternoon and lasted thirty minutes. The storm appeared to be about a mile wide. Stables and outbuildings were demolished. A large hay barn, without a floor, occupied by a family, was transplanted 100 feet and scattered across the railroad track. The family and furniture were uninjured. The Roman Catholic Church was partly destroyed. The tin roofs on three-quarters of the business-houses in town were either blown off or materially injured. The damage will aggregate $20,000. No one was seriously injured.

BALTIMORE, (Md.), Aug. 11.—A wind-storm of cyclonic proportions, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain and much hail, swept over the city this afternoon. Houses were unroofed, trees uproofed, windows broken and telegraph and other electric wires broken down and much other damage done. The most serious damage done was the destruction of St. Elisabeth Catholic Church, in course of construction. Fortunately no one was hurt. Several small vessels in the harbor were sunk. was five stories high and seventy feet wide, running through the block to Liberty street. From this building there was a wing of the same size extending from the middle of the block through to Fair street. On both sides of the main building were five three-story bricks and on the north side was a two-story brick structure. All of these were destroyed: The loss to the stamping company was estimated by State Senator Ketcham, treasurer of the company, as upwards of $500,000; insurance, $250,000. The other losses will aggregate $30,000.

The flames were discovered about 2 o'clock in the blacksmith shop. Even then the fire had a firm hold on the building. A general alarm was sent out, and within twenty minutes every piece of fire apparatus in the city was on the scene. Fifty thousand people watched the progress of the flames.

Despite ions of water the flames gained, and, within half an hour after the first alarm was sounded, the roofs of the building were masses of fire. The flames shot a hundred feet in the air at times, and big burning brands were carried for blocks by the wind. These brands, some of them many inches in length, were carried on to the roofs of the buildings a considerable distance away, and the chemical engine was kept on the rush from one street to another putting out the small-er fires. Firemen were stationed on the roofs for several blocks with water in pails to put out the small fires.

In less than a half hour after the first alarm was turned in the walls began to fall. The house at No. 10 Fair street was crushed beneath the wall next to it. In this house lives Samuel Glesner and his family. The house was flattened by the wall of brick falling upon it, but the family lost but little, as most of their belongings had been removed from the building when the fire broke out. A house at No. 27 Liberty street was also caught beneath a falling wall and wrecked. Several other houses were badly damaged by falling timbers.

When the main wall fell it buried the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad and al the head and shoulders, but will recover.

Capt. Frank Meerer of the salvage corps, was severely cut about the hands. Many firemen were also badly scorched and blistered by the heat. The origin of the fire is unknown. The building belonged to James Anken & Co., who are also interested in the stamping company. The company started on full time last week, employing 487 men.

Southern California has had a union meet of bicycle clubs, and it was a grand success, in fact, more so than the annual meet of the Associated Cycling Clubs of Northern California at

Miles Canyon, some weeks ago. Yesterday, over a hundred wheelme gathered at Pomona from fifty miles around, ate dinner together, were photo-graphed, and then held a good-roads-meeting, and organized the Southern California Associated Bicycle Clubs. The Roamers' Road Club of this city and the Riverside Wheelmen of Riverfor August 11, through its secretaries, some weeks ago. The object of the gathering was to get better acquainted and pave the way for an annual meet of the clubs of Southern California at some central point, for social benefit. It could not have been a greater suc-cess, unless San Diego and Santa Bar-bara had sent delegations. Nearly all the other Southern California towns were represented bara had sent delegations. Nearly all the other Southern California towns were represented.

As early as 7 o'clock yesterday morning, the people of Pomona were on the streets watching for the arrival of the visiting wheelmen. But as the hundred odd riders, except those from Ontarlo, had to ride over from thirty to sixty miles of bad roads to reach the rendezvous, all did not arrive until after 10 o'clock.

The Roamers' Road Club had invited the East Side Cycling Club of this city and the Crown City Cycling Club of Pasadena. The Riverside Wheelmen had, as their guests, the Redlands Cycling Club and the San Bernardino Cycling Club.

The Roamers and East Siders left Los Angeles soon after 8 o'clock, and in the Puente hills overtook the Pasadena. Club, which had ridden direct from Pasadena, through San Gabriel, and were halting to repair a punctured tire. This made a party of nearly forty wheelmen.

A mile outside of Pomona Messrs. Parker and Patrick of Pomona and Manley of Los Angeles met the Roamers and their guests, and took them into the city along the railroad footpath.

Then the clubmen assembled in the parlors of the Palomares and held a quiet but enthusiastic good-roads meeting. Robert Gray, president of the Ontario Wheelmen, was chosen chairman, and S. C. Gross of the Redlands Cycling Club, secretary.

The Southern California Associated Bicycle Clubs was proposed and partially organized on the plan of the California Associated Cycling Clubs of Northern California, and similar organizations.

Where it Will be Located in the Year Ninety-six.

In regard to the national meet of the L.A. W. in 1896, the Referee has the following:

"Boston, or rather her associated cycling clubs, does not want the national meet for 1896, notwithstanding all statements to the contrary. The association feels somewhat plqued at the treatment accorded the invitation at the last two national assemblies, and, not being a believer in begging for such a favor, which carries with it an inestimable amount of labor, will make no effort whatever to secure that plum.

"Syracuse, taking advantage of Boston's indifference pertaining to the next national meet of the league, has come out openly with the declaration that, hot as the strife was last year for this honor, she would make a grand struggle to obtain the majority of votes at the next national assembly.

"Toledo, O., has already made a bid for the meet and now Louisville and Cleveland want it. The Louisville people point to their fine track, thoroughbred horses, good tobacco, the Mammoth Cave and Kentucky's hospitality' as inducements. Toledo is too well known as a race-promoting and entertaining town to need lauding, and the activity of Cleveland's wheelmen is so great that that place can hold its own."

IMPROVED HIGHWAYS.

Good Work Accomplished by the

There is no question but what the ere of good roads has been advanced a decade on account of the bicycle. Wheelmen commenced the agitation of the men commenced the agitation of the subject and kept plugging away at it in the face of the most discouraging conditions until at last it has become general, although the advance has not been what it should be. Strange to say, the people whom it would benefit the most, the agriculturists, have been the most difficult to convince. They have fought the plans fiercely and bitterly and have not abandoned the contest even yet, although as taxpayers they are sadly in the minority. Through the exertions of wheelmen, as represented by the L. A. W., roads have been vastly improved in New Jersey, New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Maryland and many of the Western States. To be sure, it is only the beginning, and the improvement is not so extensive as it should be, but the crusade will move on with added force hereafter and grand results should be attained in the next five years. There is no one who can appreciate a good road like a wheelman and none to whom a poor road is so obnoxious. Prducing his own locomotion and closely watching his pathway in the meantime he is an earnest convert the lous. Prducing his own locomotion and closely watching his pathway in the meantime he is an earnest convert the moment his novitiate expires. As all the world is getting a-wheel it will naturally include the legislators in due time and then we will have the proper kind of advocates with personal experience to guide them in their legislation for improving the roads of the country.

Daily Programme Carried Out by the Champion.

In a recent interview with Champion Corbett, the great puglilist describes his training programme as follows:

"My training work begins at 7 a.m., and goes along in this manner: On rising in the morning, I take a sponge bath, followed with one-half hour's exercise with light dumb-bells, just to take any vestige of stiffness out of my muscles from the previous day's work. Breakfast comes on about 7:45, which consists mostly of fruite in season, mush, a couple of chops or steak, with coffee. Stripping at 9 a.m., work begins on the wrist machine and pulley weights, which is topped off by sparring till 10 o'clock. From 10 to 10:20 I punch the bag, and sometimes keep it up for forty-eight minutes at a stretch. Through with this, I find waiting for me, with gloves on, Steve O'Donnell, McVey. Billy Delaney and my brother Jo- and with them I spar continuously till lunch time, which is about 12:30. Lounging about, reading the papers is then in order till 1:20, when work recommences. I wrestle for one hour with Steve O'Donnell and McVey, which is very hard work, but that is nothings to the work just ahead of me in the handball court, where my brother Joe is waiting for me. We play for about two hours, tearing down work that makes a ten-mile spin on the road take a back seat. Occasionally, to vary the monotony, we play a game of baseball, and from 4:30 to 6 p.m. I go about ten or fifteen miles on the bicycle.

"On my return I am rubbed down and go-to supper, at which I eat whatever I desire. I go to bed at 9:30 or 10 o'clock, and thus my day's work is concluded."

las encouraged the promoters of the contest. The Mayor replied to the preachers as follows: "I deeply deplore the fact that such an esteemed body as the Pastors' Association of Marshall should have fallen into the self same error that numerous citizens of Texas have time and again corrected. Dallas is not going to allow a prize-fight to be held in her confines. Arrangements have been completed for an athletic exhibition, the most scientific boxing contest in the world. This will attract the leading men of the world interesting in athletics. It will bring money to the city directly, and, being held at the same time as the State Fair, will give those men of capital who attend, such an insight into the advantages of Texas they never could under other circumstances obtain. As business men of this city we fild what we thought best for our interests and that of our city. As Mayor of Dallas, I took an active part, as it was my duty to do. If the meeting to be held here on October 30 was illegal in violating the honor and dignity of the State and the civilization of the times, I would be the first to decry it." The Mayor's reply has created a big sensation throughout the State.

The King of Gamblers on the Race Track.

Of all the so-called plungers on the turf there are none who compare with Rliey Grannan in seemingly reckless bets. Grannan does not wait for one race and bet on it, as most plungers do. He bets on every race. A study of his method of betting is interesting, says a Cincinnati paper. Take his speculations on a recent day for example. In the first race he bet $1200 on Hippogriff against $600 and won. In the next race he bet $2000 against $14,000 and lost. In the third race he bet $1000 against $10,000 and won. In the fourth race he put $3500 on Eghart against $12,000 and lost by a nose. In the fifth race he started in to bet on Rasper. He offered $100 to one book but it was not taken; he offered it to another and was refused; then he got mad and bet $2000 on Favorine. He lost. In the last race he bet $3000 on Candor and finished second. He quit the day $5500 ahead.

A LITTLE SYMPOSIUM.

A LITTLE SYMPOSIUM.

Opinions Expressed Anent the Coming Great Fight.

The expected has happened. The executive of the State of Texas has officially declared that the Corbett-Fitz-simmons battle shall not take place in the Lone Star State. He starts out with the broad declaration that "prize-fighting, whether with or without gloves, is expressly prohibited by the laws of this State, and any person who acts as second, stakeholder, counselor or adviser, or who shall render aid of any such character, for or to the principals, or either of them, in such fight, is principal in such offense." He makes no mention of the proposed big fight, but says in a general way that he proposes that the laws of the State against pugilism shall be observed and violators of it punished.

After the Attorney-General decided that the anti-prize-fight law was valid, this move of Gov. Culberson was only a question of time. Dan Stuart claims not to be at all disturbed over the matter, and as he is a clever man, what he says is entitled to consideration. Still he should go slow in his statements about the matter. It is not wise for a man in his position to make remarks which could be construed into a declaration that he would puil off the fight in spite of the Governor of the great State of Texas. Texans are rightly too loyal to their Governor to stand anything like that.

The people of Dallas seem anxious that the contest be allowed to come off. There seems to be but one move to be made, and that is for a meeting to be arranged between two boxers. The police can stop it in the first round, and arrest the fighters, and thus bring the matter into the courts. With every one willing to expedite matters, a decision could soon be reached.

"I read a brief dispatch in the New York papers," said Corbett when asked for his opinion of the Governor's action, "in which it was stated that such a proclamation had been issued, but that is the extent of my knowledge. I am under contract to Dan Stuart and Joe Vendig of the Florida Athletic Club, and will abide by their instructions. Dan Stuart seemed so very confident of his ability to pull the fight off in Texas, surely he could not have overlooked the Governor in the matter. Hitherto the stand taken by Gov. Culberson seemed to warrant Stuart's confidence, and I am still inclined to believe that Dan has something up his sleeve."

Redlands is arranging to follow the example of Riverside, San Bernardino, Santa Ana and Pasadena and have a third of a mile bloycle track of its own.

The road to Pasadena is very bad. It could be put in good condition for bicycles and wagons at a small cost, too. The game of croquet is popular at Ontario and the town has many players of high standard.

Gov. Culberson's edict, adverse to pugilistic encounters in the State of Texas, does not seem to have had much effect on the sports, who take a deep interest in pugilism in the vicinity of New York. They all believe in Dan Stuart's ability to bring off the big fight at Dallas, Tex.

As "side shows" the O'Donnell and Maher and Ryan-Smith fights have also engaged the interest of the sporting fraternity.

In the uptown hotels of New York city the lovers of pugilism, who never lose an opportunity of making a wager on a sporting event, be it man, horse or dog, gather together and discuss the pros and cons as to the possibility of Stuart's scheme coming out on top.

Just now in the grand circuit turf followers are looking for something to beat Azote in the free-for-all and Klamath in his class. They have not been able to find a competitor. Many think that Klamath can give Azote an argument greater than he has yet had in the free-for-all. Klamath has disposed of William Penn and all of the wonderful trotters in his class with great ease. The California horse may be the surprise of the season. to be well fixed when his retirement came.

With Directly, Diablo, Silkwood, W. Wood, Waldo J. and Seymour Wilkes all contesting for first place in the free-for-all pace at the Los Angeles meeting, it is predicted that at least 20,000 people will assemble from all parts of this Coast to see it.

In view of the poor showing of the Baltimore critic makes the following comment: "Little drops of water, little grains of sand, make the mighty ocean and the beauteous land."

The gameness of the Electioneers is being exemplified more strongly every year. Last season Monroe Salisbury claimed that Expressive, Altivo and Azote demonstrated this fact, while this year Bouncer, El Rami, Seylax and Azote are carrying that standard most nobly.

President Young's latest decision is to this effect: "The umpire at the plate,"

TANGLEFOOT Fly Paper catches fleas Put to this effect: "The umpire at the plate,"

DROWNED AT SAN PEDRO. Inquest in the Case of the Hassel-balch Boy.

balch Boy.

Coroner Campbell held an inquest at San Pedro yesterday in the case of a boy named George W. Hasselbalch, who was drowned there Saturday. The lad was 10 years of age and was a son of Christian B. Hasselbalch. He, in company with another bay, named Floyd Anson, was fishing from a lighter at the pier. While young Hasselbalch continued fishing Anson took a small boat and rowed to the other side of the pier. Anson noticed that Hasselbalch was missing from the lighter. He promptly went to the lighter and discovered the lad's fishing line fastened to it, but the boy was overboard. Anson pulled on the line and saw Hasselbalch's hand come to the surface, it being attached to the line.

Help was called for and J. A. Norman, who chanced to be not far away, responded. It was found that the fishing line had in some manner wound around the lad's body and some time elapsed before he could be taken from the water.

Drs. Weldon and Forbes worked for nearly an hour attempting to resusci-tate him, but without success.

Perhaps Incendiary.

The fire department was called out by a telephone alarm at 5:40 a.m. yesterday for a fire in a building used as a dwelling-house and paint shop in the rear of No. 215 Wall st. The building was owned and occupied by J. Wankowski, who was absent at the time. A door was found broken open, which fact leads to the belief that the fire was incendiary. The loss was about 1006.

PHOENIX, Aug. 8.—(Regular Correspondence.) While the wives of the city fathers have been away the Council has again ventured on a discussion of notorious block No. 41. Two of the five present were in favor of letting the five present were in favor of letting the birdies loose and fly whither they would. Mayor R. Allyn Lewis, one of the promoters of the block, made an earnest protest, seconded by Councilman Frank Moss, who knew what it was to have the damsels of the "half-world" for neighbors. Councilman John Dennis brought the matter to a temporary standstill by a motion to lay the resolution on the table. PAID FIRE-DEPARTMENT SUG-

Chief Goodman of the fire department says the proposition of a partially paid department suggested by the Council, department suggested by the Council, is preposterous. He says: "The present department could work to no better advantage under salaries. If the City Council is desirous of making the department as proficient as possible let it furnish a couple of horses and a watchman to be at the engine house at all times; put up fire-alarm boxes throughout the city with a code of signals to inform the watchman at the engine house just where the fire is so that no time may be lost in hunting for the location of the blaze; and more important than all, see that when necessary a sufficient pressure is supplied by the waterworks through the fire plugs to enable the department to do effective work. The men are satisfied to serve as a volunteer department and ask nothing for themselves, but feel sadly handicapped at the poor advantages for fighting fire which are at their disposal."

Phoenix is fully up with the proces-sion on the "new-woman" question. Yesterday seven of them, all of good family, were out for a "time." They lined up to a soda fountain and took turns treating. Down the line they went, each doing her share at doing the handsome. The seven glasses of soda aplece had no visible effect on them.

L. L. Plank will work single or double. He has just been in double harness, and there is no doubt about it. He was driving his family out on the Black Canyon road on a pleasure trip in a spring wagon. The team was a mule and a horse. At a hill the horse balked. All the usual process of making a balky animal move, failed. Mr. Plank is a man of resources, however, as shown by what followed. He unhitched the horse and harnessed himself alongside the mule and away they went to the top of the hill dragging the horse behind the wagon.

DEATH OF CLAY MEADOR. One of the saddest deaths in this city is that of Clay Meador, which occurred here this week, after a short illness. His brother had been notified in New York, and had hastened to see him alive. A few hours before death came the brother arrived. The deceased was a very popular young man. He came to Arizona from Nevada in 1876.

which Arizona has recently had several. THE CORRILLO MURDER.

The telegraph columns of The Times have already related briefly the circumstances of the killing of Justo Carrillo by Jesus Guiterres. The murder was the result of jealousy. While there is no evidence that Carrillo and the wife of the murderer were wrongfully intimate, yet such is the claim Guiterres makes. His wife had warned Carrillo that her husband was looking for him with a shotgun and warned him to look out. Carrillo made light of it. When they met Carrillo asked Guiterres pleasantly why he had the gun. Guiterres answered: "I am not carrying it for fun. I'll soon show you why I'm carrying it," and without warning, leveled it at him and fired one barrel at short range into his right side and arm. He then turned the weapon on his wife, who was standing in the doorway, but she dodged into the house so he could not shoot her. He then took deliberate aim at the writhing body of his victim and emptied the other barrel into the breast and arm, which must have brought instant death. He then reloaded and decamped for Sonora. Deputies Estrella and Van Alstine at once took the trail. They have just returned, the chase being fruitless. They followed him to Sopari, only three hours behind, but he got over the line safely.

DEATH OF "PETE" KITCHEN.

DEATH OF "PETE" KITCHEN.

Peter Kitchen, one of the oldest of the old-timers of Arizona, is dead. For months his death had been expected frequently, but a hickory constitution and the pioneer spirit of never giving up sustained him. He has been in Arizona over thirty-five years, and has suffered every vicissitude of the pioneer. He has been a rich man and owned large herds. He has been raided by Indians and shot at by them. He sent many a redskin to his reckoning. He once went to Sonora in the mining business, with big expectations, telling his friends what he expected to get. For seven long years his old friends did not see him. At the end of that time he turned up. He was dressed in hardly more than a G-string and had Mexican sandals on his feet. His friends said: "Well, Pete, what did you get?" The answer would not look nice in print, but everybody in Arizona knows that part of the story. The saying will long survive him of "What Pete Kitchen got in Sonora." He was buried by the Society of Pioneers.

Early this morning im-Parque de la Inique, to be present at the review of 1500 Havana volunteers who are going into the field. The city was gally decorated and thousands ladies were on the streets and on the balconies overlooking the route of the parade. At 8 o'clock Capt. Gen. de parage. At 8 o'clock Capt. Gen. de Campos arrived at the park, accompanied by his staff, Gen. Arderius, the Governor and his secretary, Calvo Munez, and preceded the volunteers. This is the first appearance of Marshal Campos in public since the battle of Peralejo, the name by which the battle en Manzanillo and Bayamo of July 13, in which Gen. Santocildes was killed, has come to be called. Marshal Campos is an enemy of personal demonstrations. Nevertheless he was received by all the colonels and officers of the volunteers while fifteen bands played a grand march. The police were not able to restrain the crowds from rushing over the barriers to greet the general, cheering Spain and shouting acclamations for the con-and shouting acclamations for the conqueror of Peralejo. The enthusiasm was indescribable, and Gen. Campos was never received with a more kindly dmonstration by the people.

After he had reviewed the volunteers, Gen. Campos, with great emotion, delivered a patriotic speech. He said the volunteers were going to protect the plantations and property which were threatened with burning by a mob whose only motto is destruction, when they ought to be, as native Cubans, the first to defend the property. The volunteers left immediately by express train for Villar.

Lieut. Col. Rodon, with 800 troops and artillery, left Bayamo to protect a convoy which was transported by the River Caute. In El Judio, near Coralito, he surprised the insurgents with a discharge of rifle shots by the vanguard and with five shots from the artillery. The insurgents lost ten killed and twenty-six wounded and were dispersed to the mountains.

Movement to Nominate McMahon of Dayton for Senator.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) CINCINNATI, Aug. 11.—Democratic leaders throughout the Miami Valley have started a movement to nominate John A. McMahon of Dayton at the Democratic State convention in Springfield next week. Since the county conventions of yesterday it is claimed that Senator Brice's friends will control the convention, and probably go further than to reaffirm the platform of 1892. Senator Brice, as temporary chairman, will sound the keynote and his friends are more interested in the platform than in candidates.

There has been some feeling engendered in the silver fight. McMahon has kept out of the fight, and is regarded as acceptable to both factions. Exgov. Campbell has declined to allow his name to be used, and Congressmen Sorg and Tom Johnson refuse to be drafted. In the event that the free-silver men should control the convention the nominee for Governor will be John H. Thomas of Springfield, or James Kilbourne of Columbus.

The Senatorship supercedes the usual contests for places this year. McMahon was a candidate for Senator against Brice six years ago. If he should run, it would be with a view of becoming Senator and assisting Brice as a Presidential candidate.

CAMP FORT FISHER (Santa Mon! ca.,) Aug. 11.—(Special Correspondence.) Sunday at the veterans' encampment the day set apart in memory of departed omrades.

The memorial services in the big tent in the forenoon were of a solemn and impressive nature. The chief feature was the memorial sermon, preached by the Rev. Will A. Knighten, chaplain of the Southern California Veterans' As-sociation, the subject of his discourse being, "A Nation's Memories." He paid a glowing tribute to the men who saved the country, and said the nation owed them a debt of gratitude which it them a debt of gratitude which it should not hesitate to pay. The men who risked their lives that the Union might survive and endured all the hardships and horrors of war, did not do so for the paltry pay the government was offering nor in expectation of fat pensions when the conflict was ended. They did it for love of God and home and native land, and the men who now begrudge the niggardly pensions some of the old soldiers are drawing, are the very ones who would not have gone to the country's defence if the pay offered had been double that which the soldiers received. A bare synopsis of Rev. Knighten's sermon would fail to do it justice. Suffice it to say that it received the hearty amen of practically all of the vast throng who heard it.

The music was also a feature of the services. The orphestic consisted of the hearty amen of practically all of the vast throng who heard it.

The music was also a feature of the services. The orchestra consisted of piano, Miss Alice Fitch; violin, Prof. Holgate; cornet, O. T. Thomas, and snare drum. The singing was by a choir of about twenty voices, led by Mrs. Florence Fox Thatcher.

A list of about twenty comrades who died since the last encampment was read, the reading of each name being accompanied by the mournful ruffle of a muffled drum. Comrade Thomas, who was a bugler in the army, also sounded "taps" for each of the dead, imitating the distant echo of the bugle blast, very skillfully.

Among the names of comrades who died within the last year were the following:

The sacred concert in the evening was THE SHAM BATTLE.

The sham battle of Saturday night, very much resembled a real one. It was so realistic, in fact, that quite a number of persons were wounded, but none seriously. The old soldlers in their attack on Camp Barrett, where Co. C of the Seventh Regiment National Guard is quartered, used a large number of Chinese bombs, which they set off in the rear of the camp, making a terrible clatter. They also used several small cannon. The milittamen retaliated with blank cartridges, and some that were not blank, being loaded with soap. Several hundred shots were fired, making a din and roar which woke up almost the entire town. Hundreds of citizens hastened to the scene of battle afoot, on bicycles and in carriages.

woke up almost the entire town. Hundreds of citizens hastened to the scene of battle afoot, on bicycles and in carriages.

Excitement was intense and the battle raged about two hours: The veterans and guardsmen were in turn repulsed, again and again, and at the end each claimed the victory. The veterans, however, seemed to have the best of it, as they captured the entire commissary of the militia and the latter had to send a flag of truce before they could get any provisions for breakfast. After the flag of truce was accepted each side cheered the other.

The militiamen were greatly outnumbered, but fought like demons. Capt. Kennedy and Lleut. Teale cautioned their men not to be rough, but the boys got excited, and fought as though engaged in real battle. Col. Brooker, who was leading the attacking force, was shot in the right arm with a wad of soap, the saponaceous charge cutting a hole in his sleeve.

Maj. C. F. Munson, who had charge of the artillery, was struck on the wrist with a carbine, and had his arm nearly broken.

Capt. McKeag, chief of the East Los Angeles police, who was in the thick of the fray, was overpowered by six militiamen and so roughly handled that he walked with a limp today. McKeag was a comrade of Commanderelect Downing in Harris Light Cavalry and was one of Sheridan's "rough riders." He says last night's experience reminded him of old times.

One unfickly veteran received a bayonet thrust in the hand between the thumb and index finger, the wound being very painful.

One of the Pasadena Sons of Veterans had his coat-tail torn off with a charge of soap. Had the shot struck him squarely it would have bored a hole through him.

Capt. Kennedy was about the worst used-up of the militiamen. He had his coat ripped up the back in such fashion that he came into the enemy's camp under a flag of truce and got a member of the Relief Corps to sew it up for him.

What came near being a serious con lagration occurred at an early hour resterday morning in the oil region. The well of the Empire Oil Company at No. 1240 Edgeware road, had been worked during the night, and preparations were made to stop work. While this was being done a puff of gas came out from the well and was blown to-ward a lantern a short distance away. The gas instantly ignited and in a m ment there was a roaring fire which quickly reduced the derrick to flames. A short distance from the fire was a 300-barrel oil tank, from which 160 bar rels of the liquid had been drawn two or three days before, thus leaving only 140 barrels of oil in the tank. It was seen that when the derrick fell it would tumble over onto the tank and accordingly an effort was made to get the oil away. From a point near the bottom of the tank was connected a pipe which ran a distance of a few feet to the of the tank was connected a pipe which ran a distance of a few feet to the nearest roadway where there were proper arrangements for loading the oil into tank wagons. Investigation of the Cook County Asylum Frauds.
(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)
CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Superintendent
Morgan of the Cook County Asylum for the Insane, said today that he had secured considerable new evidence regarding the killing of George Pucik on Friday, and that it pointed strongly to the equal guilt of Attendant Anderson with Attendant Gough. The superinwith Attendant Gough. The superintendent refused to make known what the evidence was, saying if it became public at this time it might have the effect of quieting persons who were expected to give further information. Morgan said that he proposed to leave no stone unturned to convict Anderson and Gough if sufficient evidence could be secured for that purpose.

Dr. McGrew, the hospital physician, says that this is not the first time that they have been guilty of gross cruelty to patients. He says that he has reported to the officials, but that political influence has always prevented their discharge.

Another Indian Imbroglio.

BOISE (Idaho,) Aug. 11.—Information comes from Owyhee county that the Bannock Indians, together with the Duck Valley Indians, are going into Juniper Valley to slaughter deer. They killed 1500 there last fall for their hides, and trouble was only averted by the Indians being called back to the reservation. The settlers announce that they will not permit the Indians to hunt there.

Capt. Kennedy was about the worst used-up of the militiamen. He had his coat ripped up the back in such fashion that he came into the enemy's camp under a fiag of truce and got a member of the Relief Corps to sew it up for him.

For the first time during the encampment did Surgeon Woodward and the Relief Corps have anything to do in their respective callings. The Red Cross Corps was out in full force with stretchers, arnica and lint to care for the wounded.

First street. The words were spoken shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon by her as she stood in deflant attitude with upraised broomstick in the fruit store at No. 317 East First street addressing Mrs. William Leach, who is in charge of the store.

Mrs. Leach, in company with her family, was eating luncheon in a room in the rear of the store. Seeing some one enter she stepped out into the store, thinking the visitor was some customer. The sight which confronted her instead was Mrs. Williams in the attitude above described.

In reply to Mrs. Williams's threat, Mrs. Leach wanted to know what she had been saying about her, Mrs. Williams continued her tirade, accompanying it with oaths. Mrs. Leach, who had heard of Mrs. Williams's carrying a pistol and who thought she might draw it and use it at any moment, was in a seriously frightened condition.

Just as the suspense was getting unbearable, Mr. Williams, the husband of the intruder, appeared on the scene and drew her away. He took her home, but within scarcely more than five minutes she had escaped from him and was again on the warpath after Mrs. Leach.

This time she had an ugly-looking cudgel in her hand and instead of entering Mrs. Leach's store, attempted to effect an entrance by a side passage.

Mrs. Leach saw her returning and shouted to her daughter to fasten the rear gate so as to keep, the woman out. This was done and Mrs. Williams was making a useless attempt to enter when her husband came after her again and compelled her to accompany him home.

lated by Mrs. Leach to the police. She wanted them to arrest Mrs. Williams, but was advised to wait until this morning and then swear to a complaint against the offender.

MIDSUMMER NUMBER OF THE

On the 15th of August The Times will tssue a unique special Midsummer Number, describing Los Angeles and Southern California in the season of utmost warmth, and under the highest conditions of vegetable growth and fruit production.

it will be a number redolent of sum mer and breathing of the fruits, flowers and grains that grow in our prolific soil.

This issue will differ in essential particulars from any before issued by The Times. The peculiar charms of the country-charms which never fade, but grow brighter with the passing years-will be set forth with fidelity; and our aim will be to make the numper as valuable in its contents as it will be attractive in letter-press and illustrations.

It will be a triple sheet of 36 pages, and in its contents will be embraced adequate and accurate descriptions of the towns and cities of the south, with records of progress in each.

The seaside and mountain resorts will receive particular attention, with the especial object of showing strangers what summer life in Southern California actually is.

"The Summer Sca," "Camping and Trout-fishing," "Hunting and Deep-sea Fishing," "The Horse in Southern California." and numbers of other timely topics will be graphically, pleasantly and accurately treated by skilled writers and experts.

He established schools for the street children and lodging-houses for aged people, with 500 dwellings, where they are helped with work.

A Jew's conduct has caused great excitement at Barcola, near Trieste. On a recent hely day in the Roman Catholic calendar, he made a rough cross of two sticks and fastened a picture of Christ upon it, placing several candles near by, to give it the appearance of a crucifix in a church. Hanging this in a conspicuous place, he shot at it several times with a rifle. Then, taking up stones, he threw them at the cross until it fell to pleces. An angry crowd attacked the man, but the police interposed and took the Jew safely to prison. He was afterward sentenced to fourteen months' imprisonment.

FRESH LITERATURE.

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT, National and State. New and Revised Edition. By B. A. Hinsdale, Ph. D., L.L. D. Professor of the Science and Art of Teaching in the University of Michigan, author of "Schools and Studies," etc., etc. (Chicago and New York: The Werner Company.) author of this valuable work, book was written with three classes of persons constantly in mind: (1) Stu-dents who are studying the American government in colleges; (2) Students who are studying in high schools, academies, or normal schools, of high grade, and (3) Teachers of history and children in the college of the college academies, or normal schools, of high grade, and (3) Teachers of history and civics in elementary and secondary schools. Touching the last class it may be remarked that teachers who are using a book of lower grade than this one often want, and perhaps still oftener need, a book of high grade for their own study and improvement.

Still further, the book is adapted to the wants of several important classes of persons who are outside of schools altogether—young men and women carrying on private study; members of improvement societies and reading clubs and circles; editors and political writers and speakers desiring a manual of political information for handy reference, and intelligent citizens generally, who so often find it necessary to enlarge or to refresh their knowledge of the government under which they live. The treatise is primarily a text-book It is written in the belief that the American Government should be the central subject of political study, not only in schools, but also in the common college course, and that the national and State constitutions should furnish the basis of the work, as respects subject-matter, is shown by its main divisions. THE WORM THAT CEASED TO TURN. By Gorham Sliva, author of "A Heroic Sinner," and "The Pilgrim Spinster." (New York: J. S. Oglivle Publishing Company.)

"The Worm That Ceased to Turn" is a story full of pathos, and is one of the strongest books of the day. The hero of the story is a man knowing little of human nature, but he has a great, tender heart, yearning for sympathy and companionship. His life is lonely, for his mother, the only comfort of his later years, he has laid to her quiet rest in the churchyard. He is yearning for some one to take her place in the home, and, snared by a beautiful young face, he chooses his bride from the poor untaught victous creature is pathetic beyond words, for she wrecks his life, his hopes, and makes of life a weary martyrdom that is most vividly portrayed.

pen in picturing the delights of forest and field and the many charms which appeal to the ardent huntsman.

In the volume before us he presents the "Selected Charms of the Field," which are, he says, "first and foremost, the nature of the game, its action and behavigr. ... Why the action of certain birds will give man mere delight than that of others is one of nature's secrets. We can only say it is charming, and describe it as we know it."

The charm of Mr. Van Dyke's work is its vividness of description and his power to throw the very atmosphere of the fields about his delightfully-written pages. You breathe the very all of the outer world with him, catch every note and motion of the game which you are pursuing, and see nature in all its largeness and beauty. He is a lover of nature and is never blind to her charms and helps the reader to see them with a ready eye. His work has all the intense interest of a beautiful and ever-varying landscape. SENTIMENTAL STUDIES, and a Set of Village Tales. By Henry Crackanthrope, author of "Wreckage."
(New York and London; G. P. Putnam's Sona.)

(New York and London; G. P. Putnam's Sons.)

This is a volume composed of short, well-written stories, pictures of life as we find it in this everyday world, some of which portray vividly how hard life is to some, how devoid of that tenderness which makes being rich and complete. There are pictures, too, of the temptations which are often met, and one is led to feel the need of that moral strength which gives the power of resistance to wrong, be it ever so seductive. The stories are fascinating, and the reader who takes up the volume will read them all.

BEAUTIFUL BRTTAIN. The Scenery and Spiendors of the United Kingdom, Royal Residences, Homes of Princes and Noblemen, Palaces and Castles and Stately Houses, Beauties of Mountain, Lake and River. (The Werner Company, Chicago, New York, London, Paris, Berlin.)

This large and sumptuous volume, elegantly bound and printed upon the finest paper, is a real treasure-house of art. The elegant photographs of these historic places presented were taken by permission of Her Majesty, the Queen, and by favor of the noblemen and gentlemen who own many of these historic places.

Very vividiy is the story of the Mormon wife told, and as clearly is depicted the heart-burnings, the wretchedness and the overwhelming sorrow which polygamy brought to the home. It was a terrible blight upon human happiness and human purity, and destructive of all domestic trust and happiness. Every reader of this little volume will thank God that the awful shadow of the evil is passing.

McClure's Magazine is as usual bright and sparkling. It is a midsummer fiction number, and presents among others, short stories by Kipling, Hope, Weyman and Bret Harte. Archbishop Forbes treats of "Moltke in War," and Ida M. Tarbell gives the story of "Bishop Vincent," the founder of Chautauqua. It will not fall to attract the attention of the general reader.

WOMEN IN LITERATURE. me Pasadena Anthors-Drawback

to Women Fiction Writers:

(Pasadena News:) Pasadena and this section of the San Gabriel Valley seemed to have earned a reputation as the home of literature in Southern California and with very good reason. We have many good and notable writers who are better known to the Eastern public than they are at home and there is going to be a continual increase in their members until in a few years Pasadena will be famous in this respect. Pasadena has a number of women writers who deserve all the credit they can get for the good work they are producing. Mrs. Carr's work is well known beyond the State. Mrs. Vore is a growing story writer of great promise. Mrs. Locke is the author of many clever skits and stories under a pen name and her own. Mrs. Charles Walter Stetson is a charming writer of stories. Mrs. Elizabeth Grinnell is a well-known figure in print. Mrs. Daggett has written a charming play. Her verse has been seen in the magazines and is so good that she will undoubtedly be heard from again. Mrs. Graham, while not's Pasadenan in the strict sense, lives on our borders, and at least a dozen more could be mentioned who renot's Pasadenan in the strict sense, lives on our borders, and at least a dozen more could be mentioned who reflect great credit upon the profession of letters. In referring to literature for women the Chronicle recently said:

"A large majority of the best works of fiction, and especially of the books which have commanded the widest attention, have been produced by men. There is reason for all this. A man can go everywhere, observe all phases of life. Conventionalities and her own sensibilities impose certain limitations upon a erywhere, observe all phases of life. Conventionalities and her own sensibilities impose certain limitations upon a woman. The woman novelist feels this handicap most keenly. One who would write broadly and truthfully of life must know it broadly, and have an intimate acquaintance with the conditions of vice as well as virtue. It is impossible to portray human misery in its blackest form without a close acquaintance with the evils that produce it. The mechanism of politics is a scaled book to the woman writer, except in a few isolated localities where a personal experience of a decidely unpleasant character is revealing it to her. The life of camp and barracks, the true flavor of a sailor's life, the strange toil of those who bring treasure from the bowels of the earth, the daily task, the stout strife of those who listen to the throb of the great engines that drive mammoth factories, can only be known to a woman imperfectly and intuitvely. So with the woman writer who would urge moral and social reform. Her lack of knowledge of the evils which she writes, her ignorance of the phases of life that she is attempting to correct, have often stopped short a good work."

In spite of all this against women there is no doubt that as story writers and novelists they are fast coming to the front, and with the new fields open to women they will soon have all the advantages now possessed by men and give us as good work.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE INCREASES ITS FORCE.

Good Assays from the Eagle Cif New Cyanide Plant in Arisona-New Developments in the Little Jessie—Two Mines Sold to Boaton Capitalists.

The Good Hope mine, says the Elsi-nore (Cal.) Press, is now working a daily force of twenty-five men. I. N.

It is vaguely reported that James Bailey and H. E. Tallant of Indio have sold one of their mines in the Chuckawalla mountains for $25,000.

Some white quartz from the Eagle Cliff mine, situated near the McHarney mines in San Bernardino County, showed, on assay, $84.46 gold and $7.32 silver to the ton. Some sacking ore from the same mine showed $459.38 gold and $26.65 silver to the ton. The assays were made by W. T. Smith & Co. of Los Angeles.

Clarence S. King, who recently bonded a group of mnles in the Cargo Muchacho district, agreeing to pay $120.000 for them in six months if they held their richness, has, says the San Diego Union, assigned his contract to George C. Tilden.

It is stated that either the Raymert Mining Company or the Columbia Company will erect a mill of sufficient capacity to do, the milling for both companies in the Humbug mining district, Arizona.

The Nogales (Ariz.) Oasis says that a cyanide plant is to be erected at Smith's mills on the Hassayamba to treat the Vulture tailings.

Articles of incorporation, says the Safford (Ariz.) Guardian, have been filed by the Graham County Mining and Smelting Company. The capital stock is $100,000.

Advices to The Times from Prescott, Ariz., state that a body of fich ore has been encountered in the Little Jessie mine near Chaparral at the 550-foot level. The ore is said to be the richest yet discovered in that mine, going between $800 and $900 per ton.

The Tombston (Ariz.) Prospector says that a trial run was going to be made of ore from the Ripsey mines and if the experiment proves successful.

The Tombston (Ariz.) Prospector says that a trial run was going to be made of ore from the Ripsey mines and if the experiment proves successful a ten, and perhaps a twenty-stamp mill will be erected.

Advices from Congress (Ariz.) to The Times state that the Planet and Saturn mines in Fool's Gulch near Congress have been sold to a party of Boston capitalists, the price paid being $40,000. About three hundred and fifty feet of dvelopment work has been done on them and the ore taken out is said to have proved very rich.

A Strange Suit.

(Harper's Round Table:) According to the Pittsburgh Journal, Peter Gruber, the Rattlesnake King of Venango county, has made the most unique costume any man ever wore. It consists of coat, vest, trousers, hat, shoes, and shirt, and is made entirely of the skins of rattlesnakes. Seven hundred snakes, all caught and skinned by Gruber during the past five years, provided the material for this novel costume. To preserve the brilliancy and the flexibility of the skins in the greatest possible degree, the snakes were skinned alive, first being made unconscious by chloroform. They were then tanned by a method peculiar to Gruber, and are as soft and elastic as woolen goods. The different articles for this outfit were made by Oil City tailors, shoemakers, and hatters, and the costume is valued at $1000.

MANY receipts as published still call for cream-of-tartar and soda, the old-fashioned way of raising. Modern cooking and expert cooks do not sanction this old way. In all such receipts the Royal Baking Powder should be substituted without fail.

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Fullerton, down in Orange county, is a small town, but it has good intelli-gent citizens, who love good books, as well as prosperous and happy homes. The residents there are now raising money to establish a public library and reading-room.

The honey crop in Orange county this year has just been shipped and The Times correspondent from that "neck o' the woods," writes that it is larger and finer this season than it has been for years past. Verily, the busy little bee gets to his work down there without

Your seaside hotel man, who, in winter time, doth wander disconso-lately about the precincts of his town, is now in the heyday of his prosperity and only limits the capacity of his caravansary by the number of boards on his floors which may be utilized for sleeping purposes, his erstwhile discontent being made, indeed, glorious by the shower of shekels which drop

The sad mistake made by the pres-The sad mistake made by the present street-sweeping contractor of the city, in accepting the task of cleaning the highways at a figure precluding all hope of profit on his contract, is now bearing fruit in the villainously poor work which, by courtesy, is called street sweeping. The wise bidder, or contractor, is content to let work slip by him when he knows that there is not a living wage in accepting the con-tract for the same.

No stronger evidence could be given of the awakening of liberality and the growth of a progressive spirit in the "new South," than is shown in the per-mission given by the managers of the Atlanta Exposition to the negroes to have a building of their own in the coming fair. It is the first instance on record of such a concession, and the fact of its being made looks hopeful for the future amicable adjustment of the race problem in America.

Ill-regulated and high-pressure emotional religion is responsible for more cases of insanity than any other cause, Weak and excitable natures are excited to fever-heat in the revivals and protracted meetings which periodically sweep through society like a conflagration, and those who do not speedily "slump" from the so-called "religious exaltation" back into very human commonplaceness, are apt to become cranks, if they do not dash ahead into

San Diegans who want increased railroad facilities eastward are not inclined to overlook the importance of first establishing short branch lines. The in-telligent people of the county earnestly desire a road from San Diego to Es-condido and Fallbrook. These are the most flourishing districts in the county and are important factors in the trade of San Diego, if their trade and freight can be diverted this way. While fake railroad boomers are endeavoring to at-tract the attention of the people by their loud-mouthed meaningless yawpings about a visionary scheme, a feasible, profitable, necessary railroad plan like that of the establishment of a line be-tween Escondido and San Diego, fails to receive proper consideration.

The old saying that a "good Injun is a dead Injun," still stands pat. Arizona some whites that would be good whites if they were dead whites. The correspondent of The Times at Globe, Ariz. writes that the bill which passed Congress for the construction of a railroad across the San Carlos Reservation was made conditional upon the consent and good will of the Indians on the reserva-tion. Some white men saw a chance to lay up store for themselves without great labor. They had a little quiet pow-wow with the Indians, with the re-sult that the latter asked $2,000,000 for the right-of-way across the reservation, which amount, as The Times cor-respondent points out, is about $500 for every buck, squaw and papoose on the lands. As a consequence the road will not be constructed. It is stated that a not be constructed. It is stated that at new bill will be introduced into the next Congress, asking for a right-of-way through the reservation irrespective of the consent or refusal of the Indians. The Southern Pacific Company is said to be backing the proposition.

FROM CATALINA

AVALON (Catalina Island.) Aug.
II.—(Special to The Times by Carrierpigeon Rex of the Catalina Carrierpigeon Service; time, Ih. 55m.) By far the largest crowd of the season congregated at Catalina yesterday, and today Avalon is literally swarming with people. The atmosphere is delightful, the rays of the sun partially veiled by light clouds and a fresh sea-breeze blowing—enough to fan the sails of the many yachts lying in the bay, and send them lightly leaping over the waves and out to sea. Within the past twenty-four hours 650 people have been landed on the wharf at Avalon. The two hotels—the Metropole and Island
Villa—entertained 500 guests last night.
Cots were spread in some of the halis, all the tents in the canvas addition to the Villa were utilized, and still more guests could have been provided for by means of cots and improvised beds.
Some romantically-inclined people preferred to sleep on the beach—not for lack of room—but for the novelty of the thing. There's no accounting for tastes.

The pyrotechnic display and illumination last night fairly eclipsed itself.
Signal fires blazed from the hillitops and mountain spurs back of Avalon;
the eruption of Sugar Loaf was more realistic than ever; the rockets were more numerous and the set pieces more brilliant, if possible, than ever before.
Seen from the bay, the sight was surpassingly beautiful. Every building was literally beaded with colored lights. A great crimson light threw a flood of illumination on the Hotel Metropole as the steamer approached the wharf, and the crowded condition of the hotel piazzas must have struck terror to the hearts of arrivals, who had not secured accommodations in advance.

Among the prominent people who arrived last night was the trio of dis-

Recruits are being drilled at No. 1159 Mission street and No. 818 Howard street, and though they are at present unprovided with arms, they are being taught to march and to form in line. They hope presently to obtain from some pliant Governor recognition as part of the National Guard.

"Their purposes may be inferred from their "declaration of principles," which avers that "the ballot does not express the true verdict of the will of the people, and that its purity must be protected at any cost or sacrifice," and that it is "imperatively the duty of every man who has the interest of this country, at theart, to do all in his power through the organization of this army to secure the power and freedom guaranteed to all true citizens of these United States." The meaning of this balderdash is, that when the rapscallions of the labor unions next undertake to upset business, and to overrun industry and trade, they shall have an organized body of insurgents ready to take the field against the police and the regulars, and to enforce their views with the bayonet and the torch.

The declaration of Knox, Rose and Farquhar will not carry dismay into the souls of intelligent citizens. Such fellows are always cowards; a thousand of them would fly howling if they were attacked by a company of Superintendent Crowley's police. But their declaration shows the spirit which is

(From a Special Contributor to The Times.)
"Say, fellows, he's a regular sissy!"
said Will Frost to a group of boys on Louis was the son of the new minister. "And of course," said Jack Woods, pityingly, "What could you expect?" Furthermore, he looked rather slight, was very quiet and had a rather girlish face, and said "Thank you" whenever anyone did any-thing for him. He had been in school three days now, but in that time hadn't thrown a single paper wad, eaten any-thing behind the desk, or had a bad lesson—in fact "hadn't done a thing to show any spirit," said Will, "Sissy" he was already nicknamed, and no doubt rightly.

"But say, boys,"put in good-natured Walt Brown. "We ought to give him a show, you know. Let's see if he won't play now. There he is, by the end of the Ledge."

"Well, we might try him, I suppose," said Jack Woods, the bright particular star of the school nine, "though I don't suppose he can hit a balloon."

Louis accepted the invitation somewhat to the surprise of the boys, who had hardly imagined he would even eart to play. It was "three old cat," or "scrub," as the boys called it, and he went into right field as the newest comer. "You'll bat by and by when you've worked round, you know," explained Jack Woods patronizingly. "Thanks, I think I understand," responded Louis, with a queer look in his eyes. "Lived in Boston all his life," thought Jack. "I suppose he's hardly had a ball in his hand."

But as the game went on the boys began to conclude that "Sissy" knew a little of the game after all. At last Tom Brooks struck out and Brown tossed the ball to Louis as next pitcher and went in to catch.

It happened that the mighty Jack Woods was the next batter. The queer look came into Louis' eyes again. He rolled up his sleeves, and dug his toe into the ground. "Swish!" came the first ball right at Jack's head. "Wild of course," thought that hero, as he dropped back to get out of the way, but Walter Brown smiled, as he said. "What do you want, Jack? That was square over the plate." The ball by a beautiful out-shoot had "cut the center" almost exactly.

The boys grinned, Jack muttered something or other, and as the next ball came slowly in, just level with his chest, made a savage strike at it. But about that time the ball, seeming to grow weary all at once, sank gracefully toward the earth and passed a good foot below his bat. "Swoop!" again went the bat with a grunt from Jack, now thoroughly on his mettle. This time the ball shot in, narrowly missing his ear. The boys were perfectly still. Was the "Sissy" going to strike out. time the ball shot in, narrowly missing his ear. The boys were perfectly still. Was the "Sissy" going to strike out Jack Woods, the "slugger?" It looked

II.

But just then something happened that not only saved Jack from the fate he was really beginning to fear, but drove all thoughts of baseball from the minds of the boys. Desperate at the thought of striking out, and that, too, on the pitching of a fellow whom he had so lately ridiculed, Jack made a grand final effort and succeeded in hitting the next ball pitched, not fairly, though, for it shot up over Brown's head, a high foul, and fell in the road beyond. Scarcely had it struck when a ragged agile figure seemed to rise suddenly out of the ground, caught it on the bou.d, and was off like a shot up the road toward Marble Hill. The boys stood for a second speechless, and then with a wild, surprised, angry shout of "Dan Hennessy!" "Catch him!" "He's hooked the ball!" the whole crowd made a rush for the fence after the fleeing figure.

As in most small towns, there was a lower class in Elmwood the workers in the marble quarries, whose boys seemed to have a natural antipathy to the wealthier, better educated fellows of the town, who attended the school. A leader among these was Dan Hennessy, who had just now so effectually broken up the ball game. He was known by many of the boys to their sorrow, as a cold, bold enemy, able both to fight and to run. The latter was his wisest policy now, and he was pushing it vigorously. He had a good mile to go to the stream which was the understood boundary of the Hiller's territory, but had counted on the surprise of the boys to give him a start. The chase had begun more promptly that he had anticipated, however, and when Woods and Brown, the two nearest the road, had cleared the fence, the Hiller was not more than start. The chase had begun more romenty yards in the lead. But a stern chase is a long one, and the result was indicated into the road "More'n a mile," as the reply, "bit he runs like a streak. I don't believe we'll catch him. Dollar in a quarter ball gone, most likely."

In fact, the last idea was the very one n which he was acting. He saw that it as a race between Dan Hennessy and field," as a sporting man would The two nearest pursuers, Brown "the field," as a sporting man would say. The two nearest pursuers, Brown and Woods, were playing the part of pace-makers. He could see that they were not saving themselves at all, and would probably be unable to catch the Hiller, before he reached the bridge. But they might tire him so that Louis, by saving himself for a determined spurt at the end, might overtake him. Hence our young friend's apparent indifference.

At a half mile Louis passed two or three who had been leading him, and just then the road curved. Passing the bend he could see the bridge a half-mile ahead, and began to calculate his distance. Brown and Woods were just holding their own, but evidently with an effort. Even now Brown dropped back, holding his side. "Woods" li never do it," thought Louis. "Now for it!" Will Frost was just muttering to himself between breaths. "No use, might as well give it up!" when a gray and white streak shot past him up the road. "Well, of all things," he gasped, "Hum, Jimmy, see him go!"

streak shot past him up the road, "Well, of all things," he gasped, "Hum, Jimmy, see him go!"

He was "going it" for a certainty, and there was need of it. Only a third of a mile more and then the bridge, and safety for the bold Hiller. Suddenly the fugitive heard a shout behind him. "Good boy, Allison!" "Go it, we'll back you!" It was very shaky, for Brown and Woods hadn't much wind left. Dan Hennessy turned and saw our hero coming for him like a small whirlwindteeth set, hair flying, fists clinched, and not twenty yards away. "Little Fool." he said to himself. "He can run, but wait till he catches me!" and a contemptuous grin came across his face as he plodded on. He had already found his plan. He would reach the bridge if he could, then turn and demolish his pursuer with a single blow, and with the start this gave him on the others, he could cross the long bridge to his own side and safety.

He g anced back again. His enemy was gaining fast. A stone's throw from the bridge he was not a rod behind. With a last spurt the Hiller ran a dozen steps on the bridge, then turned like a flash and prepared for a lefthand blow straight in his pursuer's face!

The rest happened so fast that the

The rest happened so fast that the panting boys behind hardly knew what took place. "Look out," cried Woods, as the Hiller faced around. But he had as the Hiller faced around. But he had hardly got the words out when he saw Louis spring forward, dodge beneath the dangerous left hand, block the right with his own left, catch his opponent's neck in his right arm and bending suddenly forward and toward the left, shot the astonished Hiller over his head like a bag of meal. There was a loud crack, as the filmsy rail gave way under the shock, and then with a howl of fright, Dan Hennessy tumbled head foremost into the deep stream, ten feet below.

IV.

Before the boys could reach the spot, Louis-had looked over the edge for a moment, then with a frightened exclamation, he, too, disappeared into the river below. "Quick, fellows," he gasped in a moment, coming to the surface, "He hit his head when he went. I've got him, but he's awful heavy, hurry, hurry," his head sank beneath the surface, but came up again, white but determined. In a moment more the boys had rushed down the bank, shoved off an old skiff and hauled the two boys into it, both unconscious.

Dan, strange to say, was the first to come around. "Well," he gasped with a weak attempt at his old bravado, "You've got me now. I s'pose I's got ter take it. Wot's the matter with him?" he asked in wonder, as he caught sight of Louis drenched like himself, just opening his eyes under the vigorous though unscientific treatment of two or three others. "Hum," said Harry Nichols. "Why he though unscientific treatment of two or three others.

"Hum," said Harry Nichols, "Why he went in for you, you know. You hit your head on a beam."

"Wot's that!" cried the Hiller, start-ing up, but sinking back dizzlly, "did he jump in after me, an' fainted away tryin' to git me out. Well, I'll be blowed! Say, young feller," he said to Louis, who was fast getting back to his normal state, "you're a.brick, you are, you beat me runnin' an' you done me in a fight, an' you slung me in the river, an' I guess I'd never come out only fer you. An' if you want ter take it out of me now for hookin' yer ball, why, just pitch in; you got a right to, an' I'll take it like a sojer!"

"But we don't want to do any pitching in, do we boys?" said Louis, with a smile. "I guess Dan has had enough pitching in for once, and I'm sure I have. Why can't we shake hands on it and be friends? I think that would be more sensible," and he held out his hand to the Hiller, who grasped it eagerly, but shamefacedly. And right there in that handshake of those two water-soaked, bedraggled boys, began a friendship and a better understanding of each other between the two sides of the town, that grew in strength and extent till the Hillers and schoolboys were as good friends as they had been bitter enemies, and the old fights and guerrilla warfare became only a memory.

Louis, needless to say, became very

to the different parks about the city.

Among those that will be removed this week are two fine magnolias in full bloom and weighing five tons each; an Auracarla bidwill over twenty feet high and a beautiful specimen of its kind; four of the largest date paims in the city, which have been in fruiting five years, and a thousand varieties of small plants and bulbs.

Under the direction of Superintendent Meserve, the roots of the palms removed Saturday were carefully boxed, and the trees, each weighing about a ton and a half, were taken to the park on drays. With the aid of a derrick and an energetic corps of men the palms were safely lowered into the holes prepared for them, and now stand guard at the south entrance as firmly as if they had been growing there all their lives.

COUNCIL FORECAST.

Business Which Will Require Con

The Council will today receive the report of Health Officer Steddom with reference to the sanitary condition of the City Hall. The result of the inspection made by Mr. Burgoin was printed in The Times of yesterday, and this will be used as a basis for the report the Health Officer will present.

The street sweeping of the city will receive attention at the hands of the Council, as, instead of improvement following the leniency exhibited by the Council, the state of affairs in this re-Council, the state of affairs in this respect has grown steadily worse. The City Attorney has been requested to advise the Council with reference to the proper method to pursue in formulating a new contract for the work, but it is understood that he will ask for further time to consider the matter.

The reports to be presented by the Board of Public Works and the various committees of, the Council do not include anything startling, and unless the only remaining Police Commissioner files his resignation or the Ministerial Union concludes to wait upon the Council, nothing of an unusual nature will disturb the serenity of the city officials in the transaction of their business.

Francisco's purse? Well, we should smile.

(Santa Barbara Press.) Horseraces draw crowds this year just as they have drawn them in the past, notwithstanding all the talk of the displacement of the trotter by the bicycle. The popularity of wheel races simply proves that there was room in the United States for one more sport.

(Woodland Mail:) The last and the saddest lesson that young people learn is that they ought to have heeded the advice of their old out-of-date mammy or daddy. With all the hope and ambition and energy of youth, it is handicapped by its blindness and its obstinacy. Soberly and truly, young fellow, you will be wise if you listen attentively to every admonition the old folks give you.

(San Luis Obispo Breeze:) Many of the latter-day statesmen have much to say about our forefathers and the dollar of our daddles but nothing is clearer or more positively proven by the facts of history than that they made a hundred-cont and not a fifty-cent dollar, recognizing also the fact that commerce and not the government was the controlling power in the matter of ratio between silver and gold. The plan is to give all lines deairing to enter the park the use of the Burlington track at a fixed yearly rental.

DISTINGUISHED MASONS AT THE BANQUET TABLE.

A Lbrary Social-Opening of the De-fries Tract-Funeral of the Late Henry L. Barnard-Organ Re-cital at the Universalist Church. Personal Mention.

PASADENA, Aug. 11.—(Regular Correspondence.) Friday evening Corona Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, held one of the most important and intermeetings in its history, the oc-being the conferring of the third upon one of the most distin-citizens of Pasadena. The anthat special service had been arranged on the electric cars, drew a large number of visitors from other lodges, and the work of the Corona lodge was witnessed by about two hundred members of the order, about a hundred and fifty of these remaining to participate in the banquet which followed. Three long tables, ranged the whole length of the banquet hall, seated as many eminent citizens as were ever congregated beneath one roof in Pasadena. The exercises were under the direction of Worshipful Master Frary, and at the banquet table appropriate speeches were made by the master of ceremonies, and by Congressman H. M. Ogden of Louislana, ex-Gov. Markham, Dr. H. S. Orms, Arthur Brookman of Los Angeles, J. A. Buchanan, Judge Weed and others. The visitors from abroad were; H. W. Ogden, M.C., Benton, La.; P. A. McKenna, Los Rugel; Sandy Wooley, Bushnel., Ill.; S. J. Bisbee, Nashua, Iowa; J. Horton, Dighton, Kan.; C. Ford, Rockford, Ill.; C. M. Burt, Washington, D. C.; A. J. Millis, Mystic, C.; W. H. Smith, Rock Rapids, Iowa; Charles B. Tyng, Jacksonville, Fla.; A. F. May, Charles City, Iowa; S. Axtelf, Augusta, Iowa; W. Gray, Nashua, Iowa; M. C. Parmely, Oak Park, Ill.; Charles G. Rogers, Grundy City, Iowa; Andrew Ryder, Denver; J. L. Clark, Sproms; R. H. Franklin, Colton; B. B. Coclord, Sterling, Ill.

COSTUME SOCIAL. The library social at the First Congregational Church on Friday evening was an amusing affair, as about seventy-five members of the church and congregation came, representing various well-known books, in their attire or adornment, and the guessing was lively among those participating, as to what the array might mean. There was one extremely singular outfit, that of Prof. Parker of Throop Institute, which puzzled nearly everybody, until some one suggested that it was the book which was the most necessary to everybody. sing nearly everybody, until some one suggested that it was the book which was the most necessary to everybody, that its "contents" were movable from one part to another, and that its author was unknown. Then it was plain that the professor represented the "pocketbook." Miss Eaton came in the garb of the "Divine Comedy," and Miss Cody going about with a little hatchet and averring that she "really could not tell a lie,"was found to be the "Truthful Woman in Southern California. Mrs. Nash with a hand-mirror reflecting her countenance was soon discovered as "Face to Face," and Miss Janes, dressed in a quaint robe of the olden time, with a border all about the garment of bright gilt, was "The Gilded Age" (gilded edge.) The Defriez tract, mentioned in Saturday's report as having been purchased by C. G. Harrison, lies on Los Robles avenue, about two hundred feet north of the Santa Fe railroad tracks, and was owned by Cyrus W. Davis, who bought it about a year ago. Walnut street is to be continued through the tract, a resolution of intention to that effect having recently passed the Council, and the lots in the new subdivision will front both on Los Robles avenue and Walnut street. Los Robles that effect having recently passed the Council, and the lots in the new subdivision will front both on Los Robles avenue is one of the finest streets in Passadena, being fully seventy feet in width, but there is much vacant property along the northern portion of the street, therefore the residents of that portion of the city feel particularly gratified that this large tract will be divided and probably built upon, and look upon the improvement of that portion of the street as a benefit to the whole thoroughfare.

Madison avenue has shown rapid improvement to the northward of late. Several large houses have been built north of Colorado street in the last year, and the street-improvement along that thoroughfare for the two blocks north of Colorado street speaks well for the residents of the locality. Wellkept tree-margins, palms and shade trees set at regular intervals, and clean broad sidewalks are the rule. No one would take Madison avenue for a village street, but the same can not be said of some other thoroughfares in town, where the weeds run riot and the trees are allowed to grow raggedly and with untrimmed, drooping branches.

At Lippincott's chapel at 3 o'clook this afternoon funeral services were held over the remains of the late Henry L. Barnard of Sierra Madre Villa Hotel, in the presence of a large number of the friends of the deceased, among them being many Masons. Mr. Barnard was a recently-admitted member of the order, but had not taken the degrees which would entitle him to a Masonic funeral. The funeral sermon was preached by the Rev. Mr. Abbott of Sierra Madre, and there were several beautiful floral offerings. A quartette choir from the Methodist Church of Pasadena furnished the music. The remains will be placed in Lippincott's vault, pending a decision regarding the interment.

At the Universalist Church this afternoon the fifth in a series of free organ reotals and concerts was given, a large audience being present. The following programme was rendered: offertory in G. (Wely.) H. C. Fletcher:

SANTA ANA, Aug. 11.—(Regular Correspondence.) Bearing, as it does, upon the water rights of several thousand fertile acres of the Santa Ana Valley over by the foothills in a choice portion of the county, it is of far more than usual interest and importance, as much depends upon the eutcome of the case.

The suit promises to be long drawn out, but very interesting. Hon. S. M. White and Judge Lamme of Los Angeles and other eminent counsel has been employed on the case, so that there is scarcely a doubt that the law will not be fully tested in every particular.

VILLA PARK.

VILLA PARK.

VILLA PARK, Aug. 11.—(Regular Correspondence.) The beautiful Santa Ana Valley, justly famous for its many pretty towns and settlements, contains one place which seems to have been overlooked by the majority of people.

Seven miles north of Santa Ana, on the Tustin branch of the Southern Pacific, is the little stations of Southern California, rude in structure, and deserted save by the one lone man who "carries the mail." But a drive of half a mile brings before the traveler a scene at once picturesque and beautiful—the little spot called Villa Park. To the right and left, as far as eye can see, stretches out ranch after ranch of trees and vines. The soil is adapted to the raising of any variety of fruit, and hence can be noticed peaches and oranges, prunes and apricots, pears and lemons, growing side by side, and with equal vigor. The system of irrigation used in Villa Park is well established, thereby preventing the inconveniences arising from the litigations and lawsuits, so often caused by this most important consideration. The water, most of which comes from Santiago Canyon, is pure and dool, and it is so arranged that a certain number of shares are sold with each ranch. Villa Park is in the frostless belt, and this fact alone should recommend it to Easterners desirous of finding a place where they may raise fruit without the disastrous effects of occasional frosts. The word "fog" is unknown to a resident of the place, and should you approach him on the subject he would tell you that it was something concerning which he could give you no information. The owners of the ranches are people of refinement and culture, who work together for the common good of their little village. Let the tourist who may hear of villa Park climb the foothills overlooking it, see the Santa Ans Riverin the distance, winding in and out; notice the rows and rows of trees growing sturdly and uniformly; feel the clear, invigorating air, and then as he gazes upon the sky mellowed with the last rays of the setting sun decide

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 11.—(Regular Correspondence.) The largest sale of real estate which has occurred in this city estate which has occurred in this city for years was consummated on Friday by the sale of the historic Horton House, which faces the Plaza on D street. The Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company of San Francisco controlled this valuable property. The purchaser is supposed to be U. S. Grant, Jr., although at this moment the name of the purchaser has not been made public. The consideration is $60,000. It is said that Mr. Grant represents a syndicate, the ultimate plans sents a syndicate, the ultimate plans of which are to convert the hotel into of which are to convert the hotel into a first-class property. The Horton House was built twenty odd years ago by "Father"A. E. FOR A FAKE RAILROAD.

FOR A FAKE RAILROAD.

The Supervisors have ordered $100 to be given to the fake "railroadmen's railroad." County Treasurer Thompson recently said that he would not pay this fake railroad a cent of the county funds unless compelled to do so under mandamus proceedings. The action of the Supervisors on Friday, in giving away county money for the purpose of paying the personal expenses of President Vroman of the fake road, is regarded as an unprecedented action, which is not only illegal but reprehensible. General Manager "Baldy" Sauer of this fake scheme in a recent manifesto says that Vroman "wants and must have help." According to "Baldy." Philip Morse, U. S. Grant, Jr., and Heber Ingle will solicit subscriptions for his fake scheme. POINTS ON SUNDAY SERVICES IN CITY CHURCHES.

Rev. Dr. Wallace's Discourse "The Dual Power Controlling Human Development." Superintendent Mason of the Pacific

men'sChristian Associations. Religious Notes.

Gospel Union Speaks of Salva-tion Through Faith.

Despite the rush to the seashore yes-erday there were good audiences at most of the city churches. Among the discourses and services of especial in-terest were the following:

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL. A very good audience greeted Rev. Dr. Vallace upon his second appearance in this pulpit yesterday. The decorations evidenced an artistic hand in arrange ment, and the music was of the usual high order. The theme of the sermon "The Dual Power Controlling Human Development," was based on these words, found in Ezekiel i, 24: "When they stood, they let down their wings."
"In all men's conceptions of God," said the speaker, "there is a strange mingling of truth and fancy. In the mythology of the Greeks and Romans there flashes upon one something of the supernatural in their impersonations of the gods and goddesses, yet these are really the men and the women of the the gods and goddesses, yet these are really the men and the women of the time in which this faith had its origin. Jupiter himself was a man endued with an omnipotence to do that which men by nature accomplish or desire to accomplish.

"Man never had so exalted an idea of the greatness, the majesty, the wisdom, and the power of God as now; the thought has expanded and deepened with the lapse of the years since Jesus drew aside the vell that hides Divinity, and revealed its intimate connection with humanity. The same truth is hidden in the vision that came to the prophet by the River of Chebar, in the mysterious beings, whose wings could touch the heavens, while their feet rested upon the earth, with another no less impressive, that 'as they stood, they let down their wings;' that is, while they rested with the earthly, they lost the touch of the heavenly.

"Man is not only ideally, but inherently, a being of progress. As the acorn with a spirit of unrest ever at work in nature, struggles and sirives against its imprisoning envelopes until the tiny oak gives promise of the majestic tree to crown its untrammeled future progress; as the seed, buried in darkness and the perfection and beauty of the flower, so man is beating against his opposing environments, eager to rise toward his

so man is beating against his opposin

cnill, is ever upward stirring toward the perfection and beauty of the flower, so man is beating against his opposing environments, eager to rise toward his highest possibilities. Never more than now has the cry sounded so clearly, 'More light; give us the day,' although the story of our race has been that of a reaching after what is possible for it to attain. In the history of the past, some great thought was born, some great thought was born, some great act accomplished, but though these succeeded dreary periods of darkness, these remained, beacon lights to guide and to encourage, whose glow has never been extinguished.

"The student of the orbs above us perceives that they not only swing in their mighty sweep about their central suns, and revolve each upon its own axis, but that all planets, suns and systems obey higher motion, and sweep onward toward a more distant and more stupendous center; so man in his progress will be satisfied with nothing less than God. I shall be satisfied when I awake in Thy likeness; alas for him if he stands and lets down his wings. The conflict of the ages in every line has ever been between progress and a tendency to remain at rest, satisfied with present attainments. Highly-civilized nations are those which have used their wings, those who have retrograded are they who have used only their feet. Korea cut but a small figure in the recent war between retrograded China and enterprising Japan; it was the inevitable conflict between progress and inertness. China folded its wings ages ago, and awakes to the surprise of finding itself vanquished by its neighbor, whom it had, in the self-conceit of those whose feet touch only the earth, held in supreme contempt.

"The law of progress in the individual is varied in its development by the preme contempt.

"The law of progress in the individual is varied in its development by the difference in his endowments. I cannot tell why yonder bird is a sparrow, and difference in his endowments. I cannot tell why yonder bird is a sparrow, and that one which cleaves the air with mighty wing is an eagle; nor can 1 explain why one man is refined, responsive to culture, delicate in percéption, while another is stolid and coarse and spiritually blind. Yet each, in his own sphere, has his work; his feet touch the earth, but his wings may expand in some degree, each in his own, responsive to the law of progress, and helpful to the other. The artist seeking shelter from the rain beside the forge of the stalwart smith, singing as he worked, caught between the strokes of his brother of coarser mold an echo of divine harmonies, which he gave to the world in the wonderful music of the 'Anvil Chorus,' which lives to charm the ear and cheer the heart for all time.

"And there is a place in the world for the conservative man. If all used their wings and none their feet, the balance would be disturbed, and men experience a feeling of loneliness as they progressed away from human touch with earthly things.

"In too many individual lives there is a tendency to be content with today a feeling of loneliness as they progressed away from human touch with earthly things.

"In too many individual lives there is a tendency to be content with today, with no thought or care for tomorrow; to fold the wings and stultify progress with present conceptions of truth. There is a ferment in the realm of religious thought because men are content with the attainments of the past and present, while God is pushing them on to higher thought and grander ideals. Ancient rituals and systems of religious worship have served their purpose and must retire before the wider conception and grander thought of an era that never goes backward. Drop the tear over the past if you will, but remember, that the future has greater things for you, if your wings do not remain folded in the present.

"The great and solemn question for each one is, what will you do with this gift of progress illimitable, glorious, which God has intrusted to you? It is an awful truth, man has power to fold his wings and stultify a future, which will enwrap him in dense darkness in time, and in the eternities.

"Poets are great because they, live in great thoughts. Raphael became the artist of all time because of his glorious conception of the transfiguration. In his own dying hour he directed his eye to his own embodied thought, the finger of helpless humanity pointing to the powerful Christ. Ah! humanity needs Christ; than anarrowed its possibilities, but when it spreads its wings steadily toward Him its progress will be eternal, nearer and ever nearer toward God, its source and center.

Superintendent C. S. Mason spoke Sunday evening from the text, Ephesians ii, 8, 9; "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God; not of works lest any man should boast."

The question, "Are you saved?" starts a train of thoughts. "Saved? Why, am I lost?" God answers, yes. The highway of holiness is the way to heaven, and man has lost his first estate, and can get back to innocence and purity only through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ

Christ.

Many souls have been blessed the past few days. The midnight meeting on Alameda street by six devoted Christian workers, is accomplishing great good. The officers report less arrests, and some of the men are leading better lives, who were, before, drinkers and disturbers of the peace. These meetings are conducted on Sundays by six Godly women.

closing, Mrs. Arnold said: "We all have great need of wise cornsel, and this, the great Master Builder, will give us if we ask for it."

The following beautiful poem was read and still further impressed the lesson of the day: For the structure that we raise, Time is with materials filled;

Our todays and yesterdays.

Are the blocks with which we build Truly shape and fashion these; Leave no yawning gap between; Think not because no man sees,

In the elder days of art, Builders wrought with greatest care Each minute and unseen part; For the Gods see everywhere.

Let us do our work as well, Both the unseen and the seen; Make the house where gods may dwell, Beautiful, entire and clean.

AMERICAN BAPTIST CHURCH. AMERICAN BAPTIST CHURCH.

"The Life of Jesus Christ" is the lofty theme of a series of sermons which the Rev. W. W. Tinker, pastor of the American Baptist Church, is giving at irregular intervals. Last evening's special subject was "Christ's Miracles." The lecture was illustrated by stereopticon views. The first half dozen were symbolic ones, furnishing Mr. Tinker the theme of an earnest talk on the development of a Christian life. The remainder of the views were pictures of various miracles. The speaker emphasized the point that every one of Christ's miracles, as recorded in the New Testament, was done to help some soul that was in suffering and anguish, and never a one for His own vain glory. This marks the great difference between the gospels and the various apocryphal lives of Christ. The other, man-made stories, all relate incidents in which Christ showed His divinity to His playmates in childhood, by working needless wonders for their edification. Another great difference is that the inspired books have not a single adjective used in connection with the Savior's name, and not a comment on His life, His character or His philosophy.

Since the two delegates returned to Califor-nia, only a short time ago, yesterday was their first opportunity to report to the association on what they had seen the association on what they had seen and done.

The regular Sunday services were opened by the singing of several hymns, followed by some selections from Haydn's "The Seasons." very acceptably rendered by the Y.M.C.A. Orchestra.

C. S. Mason, superintendent of the Pacific Gospel Union, gave an address on his impressions of the great convention. The delegates were not all clergymen or religious enthusiasts, but most of them men of weight and importance in the business world. Every one of them was alive with the purpose of uplifting the human race, of aliding the young men who will work out the world's future. And best of all, their ideas were thoroughly practical, not visionary glitaterists. horoughly practical, not visionary glit

Mr. Ball gave a brief address, which was substantially as follows;

"On the last night of the convention ewery seat in the vast hall was filled. Then fifteen men, of as many different nationalities, arose and spoke, each one in his native tongue. But every speech, Japanese, French, Chinese, German, or Hindustanee, ended with the appeal "Come over and help us!"

"Though the Y.M.C.A. is represented in every land on the globe, there is an unlimited field not yet touched. There are unlimited possibilities right around us. We send missionaries to China, and yet we have a bit of China in our midst, and most of its people are young men, and young men whom we do not reach. We send missionaries to Africa, and have many negroes in need of our helpright among us. There is the submerged tenth; their are thousands of young men in factories and stores and shops and on the railroads, to whom we can give aid. There is work for every man in this city, in helping some one else. In October there will be a State Y.M.C.A. convention in Los Angeles. We ask your hearty co-operation to scatter abroad the spirit of that occasion, the spirit which was so strong in that great convention at Springfield. There is something for every man to do."

The "Kangaroo Court."

The "kangaroq court" continues to hold sway at the corral in the rear of the saloon at No. 162 North Los Angeles street. This place is known as "Lowe's corral," and was described in The Times two or three weeks ago. Quantities of straw are kept there, and in this, drunken men are allowed to lodge. Three men, all in a more or less intoxicated condition, were lying on the straw yesterday afternoon. In at least one instance, a man has been seen lying in a drunken stupor there, with his pockets turned wrong side out. Some of the men who were standing near by admitted they used the contents of the man's pockets to buy tents of the man's pockets to beer.

One of them remembered his first lesson, but the other had evidently forgotten his, as he was as lively as ever, but eventually he found the professor was the master. When your cake is heavy, soggy, indigestible, it's a pretty sure sign that you didn't shorten it with Cottolene. When this great shortening is rightly used, the result will surely satisfy the most fastidious. Always remember that the quality of Cottolene makes a little of it go a long way. It's willful ste to use more than twothirds as much as you would of lard or butter. Always use Cottolene this way and your cake and pastry will always be light, wholesome, delicious.

Gelicious.

Gennine COTTOLENE is sold everywhere in thus, with trade-marks—"Cottolene" had beer's had in cotton-plant eversith—on every tin.
